WYANDOTTE, July 24, 1859. The Committee on Phraseology and Arrangement, submitted the article on Preamble and Bill of Rights. It was adopted by sections.

Section 5th provides "the right of trial by jury shall be inviolate, and extend ns of every condition," &c. Mr. McDowell moved to re-consider the section with a view of striking out all after the word inviolate. His reasons for this were that the words "of every condition" might be constructed to be in violation to the Fagitive Slave Act. The motion was voted down by a decided majority.

The Democrats then undertook a series of fillibustering, proceeding with a view of conferring upon Congress power to They were promptly met, however, by the Republicans, and put to rout. The African brigade, which had been held in reserve by the Democracy, was next brought forward with great eclat. Hipple and Wrigley and Stinson, and the octogenarian McDowell, struck hands, and went into the fight against the mythcal cohorts of buck negroes, who, it was redicted, were to swarm over our lovely lains, cat up the substance of the State, adannihilate the hopes of the Democracy. Sections innumerable were proposed is reference to the sable sons and daugh-

tes. Although the article had been alopted by the Convention and referred to Committe on Phraseology and Arrollment, the Democracy seemed bent on recalling it. Stinson brought forth a section provi-

the laws of the United States.

Hipple had another section prohibiting free niggers from coming into the State. Wrigley delivered himself of a section elerence to nigger babies and African

These various sections were read for he amusement of the Convention, and then consigned to a proper and merited blivion by a handsome majority.

The Republicans have taken a noble stand, and they will maintain it. The
